Microfilm inventory available at Archives of American offices, filed under Hart. The collection was received as an anonymous gift to the Archives in 1954. It has been assumed that Hart assembled the letters and related material. He may have obtained the letters written to Asher B. Durand from Durand's son, John. Original collation of the collection was two letterbooks.

626. _______. The Aboriginal Port Folio: Or, A Collection of Portraits of the Most Celebrated Chiefs of the Notes: Lithographed by Lehman & Duval, No. 7 Bank Alley, Philadelphia.

Plates represent early work of pioneers in American lithography.

Color washed in by hand.

This publication composed of 1st 9 pts. Originally announced there would be 10 pts. (80 plates) to be issued monthly. Later an 11th pt. planned (an historical and biographical description of the Indians). The 10th pt., long thought not to exist, was published but contains pictures by other artists. The 11th pt. is not known to have ever been published. Cf J. F. McDermott.
p. 20-21.

Some portraits with signature: J. Barincou.

Tribes represented are: Sioux (Dakota), Menominee, Potawatomi, Chippewa (Ojibwa), Winnebago, Fox, Sauk (Sac), Shawnee, Miami, Iowa, and Ottawa.

Per descriptions on each plate, majority of drawings done at following treaties: Prairie du Chien, 1825 [Treaty with the Sioux, etc., 1825]; Fond du Lac, 1826 and 1827 [Treaty with the Chippewa, 1826]; Massinnewa (Mississinewa), Indiana, 1827 [Treaty with the Potawatomi, Oct. 16, 1826];
Fort Wayne, 1827 [Treaty with the Miami, Oct. 23, 1826]; Green Bay, 1827 and Butte des Morts, 1827 [Treaty with the Chippewa, etc., 1827]. Names in brackets are those used in : Indian earlier stop before Butte des Morts.

Inaccuracies occur in descriptions accompanying portraits.

Employed by the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Lewis made 4 separate excursions: 1) Prairie de Chien, Aug 1825 with Gov. Cass; 2) Fond du Lac (Lake Superior), Summer 1826 with Gov. Cass and T. L. McKenney; 3) treaties in Indiana with the Potawatomi and the Miami, Oct 1826 with Gov. Cass; and 4) Butte des Morts on Fox River in Wisconsin Aug 1827 with Gov. Cass and T. L.

Three scenes included among portraits: View of the Great Treaty held at Prairie du Chien, 1825;
View of the Butte des Morts Treaty Ground, 1827; and Scene of a Pipe Dance and a Tomahawk Dance of the Chippewa.

Earliest painting dated 1823, latest 1833, and 3 without dates, but majority of paintings sketched in the field (1825-1827) and finished in Detroit, 1827-1833. Printing on some plates state that painting was done on location.

Other artists preceded Lewis in the painting of Native Americans (Chester Harding and Charles Bird King), but J. O. Lewis was the first to paint draw them in their natural environment. None

The Aboriginal Port-Folio represents the first attempt at a collection of portraits of the North American Indian, preceeding McKenney and Hall's History of the Indian Tribes of North America, and the works of George Catlin. It is the earliest effort of several of the pioneers of American lithography and color printing and it is considered the rarest of art publications about the western Indians.

About the Port-Folio Henry R. Schoolcraft wrote: "Altogether it is to be regarded as a valuable contribution... He has painted the Indian lineaments on the spot, and is entitled to patronage -- not as supplying all that is desirable, or practicable, perhaps, but as a first and original effort. We should all cherish such a work."
This Aboriginal Portfolio represents the first business venture by both George Lehman and Peter S. Duval. Their association during the years 1835 and 1836 produced this work as well as lithographs for McKenney and Hall's great History of the Indian Tribes of North America. George Lehman was born in Lancaster County, Pa. An "extremely competent artist," he "painted, engraved, aqua-tinted and handcolored a number of views of Pennsylvania towns that are well known." The lithographer Peter S. Duval ("one of the most important of them all" — Peters) was brought from France in 1831 by the firm of Childs and Inman, who also employed George Lehman. Cephas G. Childs, regarded as one of the outstanding American lithographers, and Henry Inman, painter and engraver (who incidentally contributed portraits to McKenney and Hall's work), produced lithographs which were regarded as among the best of the era. While in the employ of Childs and Inman, 1831-35, Duval began to gather around him a group of first rate lithographers who were to work with him in later years. He is regarded as a pioneer of color printing and produced the first specimen of lithotint "Grandma's Pet." Peter S. Duval and his group occupy one of the most important places in American lithography. Among the later productions of Duval's company are James Simpson's "Journal of a Military Reconnaissance," Herndon and Gibbon's "Explorations of the Valley of the Amazon." and many other government publications; De Smet's "Letters and Sketches"...etc. (RMW)

633. ________. The Aboriginal Port Folio or a Collection of Portraits of the Most Celebrated Chiefs of the North American Indians [Reference Description]. Philadelphia: Lehman & Duval, 1836. Notes: Disbound, each leaf enclosed between museum Mylar sheets, all contained in a cloth box. Lithograph title page with colored vignette. Minor defects on a few plates. $4500.00.

First edition. Extremely rare in any of its parts. This collection compiles 53 of the 72 to 80 plates that bibliographers say were issued. Howes states that the title page, which is present here, was issued with the last of the ten parts, however it was unknown to field.

Field and Bennett admire the portraits for their authenticity. They were done in the field, as were the Indian pictures by Catlin and Bodmer. Little of Lewis' biography is known, although he must have accompanied Gov. Cass to various treaty talks with the Indians between 1825 and 1827, since each plate names and dates a treaty at which the portrait was painted. the locations include Prairie du Chien, Green Bay, Fond du Lac, Massinewa (Indiana), and Fort Wayne.

Eighteen Chippewa chiefs are represented in the collection along with nine Potawatomies, eigh Maimis, seven Winnebagoes, three Sioux, two Monominies, and one each of the Shawnee, Sac, Fox and Iowa; and one plate depicts the Pipe and Tomahawk dances of the Chippewas. Little Corw III, the famous Minnesota Sioux, is shown in a feather headdress as he was painted at Prairie du Chien in 1825, and the handsome Black Hawk of the Sacs appears with an expression of haughty sadness as he was painted at Detroit in the spring of 1833 en route to Washington as a federal prisoner after his defeat in the Black Hawk War.

These portraits relate directly to one of the epochal events of American history, their having been painted on the very occasions of treaties that sent their sitters into permanent exile beyond the Mississippi, which was the great Indian Removal of the Jackson era."

637. _______. Aboriginal Portfolio [Reference Description].
Notes: Notes from Field: Two large folios containing each thirty-six lithographed Indian portraits. Each number is prefaced with a page commencing "Advertisement to The First -- (and Second) -- Number of the Aboriginal Portfolio." No other text accompanies the prints, and nothing bearing the remotest relation to a title. No. 1 is dated "Phil. July 20, 1835." No. 2, "Phil. Jun, 1835." The portraits are each entitled with the name and rank of the Indian personage represented. They have the appearance of being authentic, although no voucher, or explanation of the circumstances under which they were executed, accompanies the plates.

Notes: "72 colored plates of Indians, including the 'View of the Great Treaty Held at Prairie du Chien, September 1825, at which upwards of 5000 Indian Warriors were present.' With 'Advertisement' leaf of the first, second and third numbers. Folio, half calf. $600.00. Sabin 40812 cites only two of the 'Advertisements' and states 'No. 1 is dated July 20, 1835.' In this present copy this leaf is dated 'Philadelphia, May 1835.' Lewis was employed by the Indian Department expressly for the purpose of attending the various Indian conferences and painting the portraits of the leading chiefs, their costumes, dances, etc., etc. A former owner has written on the front cover: 'Best coloring I have ever seen; plates in earliest state.'"

It is not a salesman’s dummy but a complete book and contains 12 unnumbered hand-colored lithographic illustrations, which are not a part of the collation.

This appears to be an unrecorded variation on the many versions of Lewis's publication (see NUC-pre-'56, v. 330, pp. 521-522). It seems to constitute 2 parts of the 12 parts with 6 illustrations each (=72 plates) that made up the complete work.
